Benthic ecology and fish surveys underway

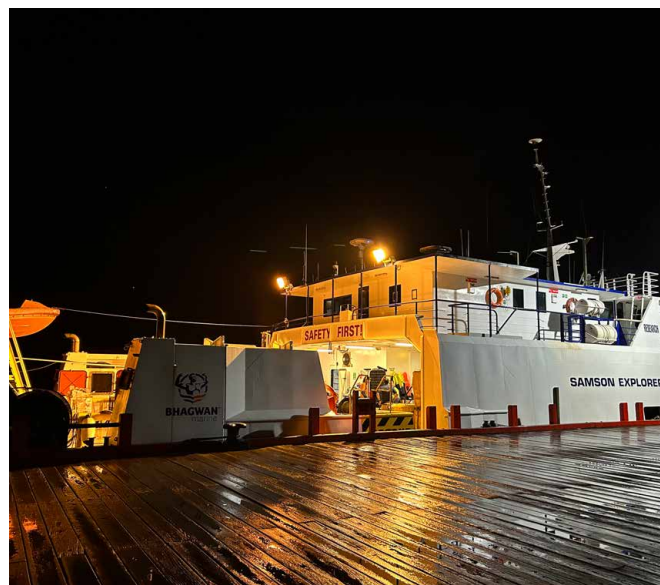

Continuing our comprehensive environmental studies, Blue Mackerel is undertaking benthic ecology and fish surveys over the next four days and nights off McGauran's Beach coastal waters and in the deeper waters of the Blue Mackerel feasibility licence area.

The underwater surveys help us understand the habitats and species present on the seabed.

The vessel Bhagwan Samson Explorer will be undertaking the works which will continue until Thursday 21 May (weather permitting).

This activity does not require any exclusive access. We don't require removal of fishing gear and there are no restrictions to vessel movement, therefore a Notice to Mariners has not been issued for this survey.

As always, we request marine traffic to maintain a safe distance.
